CATALOGUE OF MOTION PICTURES

THE NATIONAL VALUE OF THE FILM

THE motion picture, because it is the closest approximation to actual visualization and because its appeal is universal and its influence far-reaching, is today recognized as the most valuable existing medium for the world-wide dissemination of national information, publicity and advertising.

The motion picture, too, has become a great force in education and is being more and more utilized in this field, while as a factor in creating and encouraging increased development, trade, tourist travel, settlement, etc., its scope is almost limitless and its value immeasurably great.

THE CANADIAN GOVERNMENT MOTION PICTURE BUREAU

Realizing the immense value of motion pictures as a means to create greater knowledge of and interest in Canada, not only among her own citizens but among the people of other countries throughout the world, the Dominion Government, in 1916, became actively engaged in the production and distribution of films for this purpose. In such work, as a government activity, Canada is one of the pioneers.

With the growth and development of the motion picture industry in its many phases, the scope and extent of the Dominion Government's efforts in this direction have been increased until today films depicting Canada are being circulated in practically every civilized country in the world bringing to millions of people, who might not otherwise be reached, clear visualizations of the "Land of the Maple", her resources, opportunities, attractions and other aspects.

Since 1917, the Dominion Government has operated, as a branch of the Department of Trade and Commerce, an organization whose efforts have been specially devoted to this work—the Canadian Government Motion Picture Bureau.

CATALOGUE OF MOTION PICTURES

This Bureau functions as a central organization for the production of motion pictures and other photographic material for general distribution throughout the world as well as for the particular uses of the various Departments of the Dominion Government and allied organizations of national character. In addition, the Bureau deals with many other matters pertaining to the motion picture industry in which the Dominion Government is, or may be, interested.

Under an annual appropriation from the Dominion Government, this Bureau operates a modernly equipped plant for the production of motion pictures and other photographic materials of all kinds at Ottawa, Ontario, and maintains a considerable personnel of experienced executives and technicians to carry on its many activities.

DISTRIBUTION OF CANADIAN GOVERNMENT FILMS

The theatrical or commercial distribution of films produced by the Canadian Government Motion Picture Bureau in various countries or groups of countries is handled by private commercial film organizations either under contract or by special arrangement and Canadian Government films so distributed are sold, leased or rented by these organizations in similar manner and under similar conditions as commercial product of the same type.

In the various non-theatrical and non-commercial fields Canadian Government films are circulated and exhibited, under special arrangement with the Motion Picture Bureau, by agencies, organizations, institutions and individuals engaged in this work as well as by Government officials and representatives at home and abroad and directly by the Bureau itself.

Agencies, organizations, institutions or individuals in Canada or elsewhere who may be interested in the distribution or exhibition of Canadian Government films in any of the above noted fields should forward inquiries to the address given above.

FILMS AVAILABLE FOR NON-THEATRICAL EXHIBITION

Copies of the films listed in this catalogue and subsequent productions, when released for non-theatrical circulation, are available to responsible organizations, institutions and individuals for non-theatrical exhibition in Canada or elsewhere except for commercial use and subject to existing regulations governing the use of films for such purposes in the territory where exhibition is proposed.

Conditions under which Canadian Government films may be secured for non-theatrical use and other particulars with regard thereto are given, in detail, on Page 7 of this catalogue.

Organizations, institutions or individuals making application for films for the first time may be required to furnish credentials as to their responsibility before films are supplied. Applicants are requested to give full information with regard to their activities and the purposes for which films are required.

The Canadian Government Motion Picture Bureau reserves the right to refuse or terminate film service without liability.

FILM SERVICE

Applicants from points in Canada will be served directly from the Canadian Government Motion Picture Bureau, Ottawa, Ontario, except in special cases when service may be arranged through some authorized distribution agency in or near applicant's territory.

Applicants from points outside Canada will be furnished with a list of the addresses of nearest distribution agencies in their country where films may be obtained for non-theatrical exhibition. In cases where special films are required and are not available through an agency in the country of applicant, shipment will be made direct from the Canadian Government Motion Picture Bureau, Ottawa, Ontario, providing applicant guarantees payment of transportation, Customs and other extra charges involved.

A scenic and informative film depicting logging operations in a lumber camp in the timber tracts of northern Ontario and Quebec, containing views of lumber jacks at work felling trees and preparing logs, also views of how logs are transported from the forest to waterways.

138. A BIT OF HIGH LIFE.

A scenic film following the journeys of alpinists on unblazed trails near Lake Louise, depicting the wonders of Bow Lake, and finally taking the traveller after many adventurous climbs into the Columbia ice area and back to Laggan.

139. A REGION OF ROMANCE.

A scenic travelogue of the famous Lake of Bays region of the Highlands of Ontario famed not only for its matchless scenery, but as a wonderful summer resort. This film depicts, in an interesting manner, the scenic and other attractions of this lovely wilderness playground.

140. FALLING WATERS.

An exceptionally beautiful scenic film depicting many of Canada's most picturesque and spectacular waterfalls with descriptive poetic sub-titles selected from the works of famous nature poets.

141. RIDE 'EM COWBOY.

Nothing exceeds the thrills and excitement of a western rodeo and in this film depicting the now world-famous annual Stampede at Calgary, Alberta, one may view famous cowboys and riders compete in unique and exciting contests such as broncho-busting, wild steer and horse riding, etc.

142. INVADING MUSKIELAND.

An angling film depicting the experiences of a party of fishermen in quest of the fierce and crafty maskinonge in Northern Ontario. Included are splendid scenic views, interesting views of camp-life in the wilds and exciting pictures of the anglers in action.

143. FIFTEEN MINUTES FROM SKY-SCRAPERS.

A scenic travelogue of Vancouver's famous forest playground, Stanley Park, including views of the Harding Memorial, Pauline Johnson Monument, the park Zoo, the giant hollow tree, Siwash Rock, and English Bay.

144. CANOE TRAILS THROUGH MOOSELAND.

A scenic and nature film depicting a canoe trip through the wilds of north-eastern Canada and containing glimpses of picturesque woodland and waterways as well as many exceptional close-up "action" views of moose, deer, bear, beaver and other wild life on land and water.

145. NOMADS OF THE SEA.

A scenic and bird-life film taken along the northern shores of the Gulf of St. Lawrence—the home of countless thousands of little known Canadian sea-fowl. This film is of especial interest to bird-lovers in that it contains many intimate views of Gulls, Murres, Eider Ducks, Cormorants, and other rare birds nesting in their native haunts.

146. TENDERFOOT TRAILS.

A depiction of the experiences of three city men who sought something new in the way of vacations on a "Dude Ranch" in the heart of the Canadian Rockies. In addition to countless glimpses of mountain scenery the film contains splendid action views of cowboys riding wild, bucking horses, trail riding, angling for rainbow and cut-throat trout in glacial lakes and streams, a visit to a Cree Indian encampment and other interesting features.

147. WHEN WINTER COMES.

It is one thing to spend the winter sitting around the radiator and grousing about the weather—and quite another to get out of doors, where the air is clean and crisp and the snow crunches under your feet! Banff, in the Rocky Mountains, has become a western rendezvous for winter sports, and there one skates or goes sleigh riding, or even risks his neck on skis amidst the most glorious of winter scenery.

148. YOHO!

"Yoho!" is the word the Indians used to express surprise and wonder. What more suitable name could have been chosen for that little valley in the Canadian Rockies? A dozen waterfalls—Takakkaw, Point Lace, Twin Falls and the rest of them—are tumbling all over themselves to get into it. And we, as we climb the High Line Trail, and look down from the top of the world, are lost in the natural beauty of it all. When at last we find our voice it is to echo the old Indian cry of "Yoho!"

149. THE CITY OF SUNSHINE.

"Sunshine and flowers"—thus it is that one thinks of Victoria, the capital of British Columbia. Its enterprising business district is only overshadowed by its beautiful gardens. Such places of interest as Beacon Hill Park, the Mayor's Garden, the Dominion Observatory (which houses the second largest telescope in the world) and the Butchart Gardens, are famed across the Continent.

150. THE KICKING HORSE TRAIL.

Opening with the incident which gave the Kicking Horse Pass its name in 1858, the picture follows the new motor road from Lake Louise to Golden. Winding up and down, around and across it is a succession of sudden glories, among which are the Natural Bridge, Snowpeak Avenue, the Great Divide and Wapta Falls. It is a tribute to the triumph of courage and engineering which forced a passage through the very backbone of the continent.

151. THE DRIVE IS ON!

Every year with the spring break-up, our northern rivers leap to life, and the Drive is on! Under the guidance of armies of lumberjacks, the logs which have been cut during the winter make their long journey down to the mills. The deviltry of roaring swollen rivers, huge jams, hairbreadth escapes from icy duckings—the log-drive is a thrilling adventure, a constant battle in which dexterity and ingenuity are pitted against the Unexpected.

152. SEEKING STEELHEADS.

"Steelheads" are not, as one might suppose, cohorts of some Cromwellian host; nor are they a little known Indian tribe. They are a species of trout peculiar to the Pacific Coast of Canada known among angling enthusiasts as one of the finest of game fish. A quest for them leads us on a little film journey to Vancouver Island where, incidentally, we glimpse the scenic glories of the Qualicum district and finally "come to grips" with these finny warriors in their native haunts.

153. WHEN DAY IS DONE.

The sky is a blaze of colour in the west, and under its spell the world lays aside its day's work to muse awhile in the stillness of dusk. Each sunset brings a new combination of colours, a different mood. The camera has caught and woven into a little picture poem these glories—old yet ever new—which come to thrill the soul of man when day is done.

154. CANADA'S PACIFIC GATEWAY.

Three score years ago, where Burrard Inlet dents the coastline of Canada, stood a tiny trading post. Today on this same site stands the Dominion's largest Pacific port and one of her greatest cities—Vancouver. With mountain heights, ocean shores and forest realms as its borders, this western metropolis has many charms and attractions many of which are portrayed in this short travelogue of Vancouver and is scenic environs.

155. CANADA'S QUEEN CITY.

Because it is not only Canada's second greatest city in size and importance but one of much charm, Toronto, the capital of the Province of Ontario, is aptly known as the Dominion's "Queen City". This short travelogue offers glimpses of the city's many attractions and outstanding points of interest including views of the world's greatest annual fair—the Canadian National Exhibition.

156. CANADA'S METROPOLIS.

Not only one of the largest and most important cities but the second largest ocean-port on the North American continent, Montreal, the metropolis of Canada, with a history indelibly linked with the development of the New World and its old French-English atmosphere, has many and varied features of interest. This short travelogue offers glimpses of many of the "highlights" of this historic and cosmopolitan city.

157. THE CITY AT THE FOOTHILLS.

Situated at the foothills of the great Canadian Rockies in a region of vast natural resources, Calgary, is the commercial centre of the Province of Alberta. This travelogue presents interesting views of many of Calgary's outstanding features of interest including glimpses of its world-famous "Stampede" and the Turner Valley oil-fields.

158. LAURENTIAN LURES.

'Mid the rolling hills of the Laurentians, stretching like a giant crescent across Quebec from the St. Lawrence to Hudson's Bay, are myriad lakes and waterways abounding in game fish. This short film depicts the experiences of a party of anglers in their quest for speckled trout, and the story of a unique wager with a surprising climax. It is replete with fishing action and human interest.

159. RAMBLES IN GASPESIA.

utting out into the Gulf of St. Lawrence like the claw of a giant lobster—a region of sea-seared cliffs, rolling hills and quiet pastoral scenes—lies Gaspe, the Normandy of Canada. It is like turning back the pages of the Book of Time as the camera takes you through this land of striking scenery, picturesque Quebecois fisher-folk and quaint customs that makes it unlike any other place on the North American continent.

160. AN ANGLER'S IDYLL.

Two enthusiastic devotees of the art of Izaak Walton take us into the picturesque highlands of Ontario—a region of virgin forests and myriad waterways—and we see them whipping the clear sparkling brooks to lure the fighting speckled trout. We see the crimson spotted battlers lashing out at the lures and envision of the suspense of the anglers themselves as the fish leap and thresh to win clear. As a background for this thrilling action we have the natural beauty of the deep woods of northern Ontario at their best.

161. NIMRODS IN DUCKLAND.

On the wings of October's northern blasts come the ducks, pausing in their passage south to rest upon the broad bosom of the upper St. Lawrence. Here the camera joins a party of hunters in quest of these feathered prizes, and brings to you striking scenes of great flocks at rest upon the water and sweeping upward in flight, of hunters lying wait behind their "blinds", shooting, hitting, missing, and intelligent retrievers glorying in their part of the sport. This film provides a living record of a day's shooting crammed into ten minutes of action.

162. DAUGHTER OF THE GLACIERS.

High among the snow-capped peaks of Jasper National Park lies this gem of Nature—Maligne Lake. Cold, clear, beautiful, it was born in the high-flung glaciers, guarded long by a company of alpine Titans that lift their great heads into the clouds. In this film you are taken on a round of the Lake by boat, bringing before your eyes enough beauty to make you believe the words of a famous artist who said: "Where others are chamber music, Maligne is a great orchestra."

163. HIGH TRAILS.

High trails in the Canadian Rockies lead to scenic wonders unsurpassed and in this film the camera joins a party of trail-riders as they start from Jasper Park Lodge over the Maligne Lake-Shovel Pass trail, pausing en route to view the wonders of Maligne canyon, the soft beauty of Medicine Lake and the glories of Maligne Lake. The return journey takes us upward over the famous Shovel Pass to gaze upon a canvas that only Nature in her best mood could paint—vast panoramas of rocky, snow-capped alplands, vari-coloured slopes and myriad great peaks melting into the hazy blue.

164. A LITERARY FISH STORY.

A world-renowned literary trio—Rex Beach, famous author, Ray Long, noted magazine editor, and Roy Howard, publisher of the Scripps-Howard newspapers—lay down their pens long enough to grasp their fishing rods and hie themselves to the Jacques Cartier River, famous trout stream in the Laurentians. In this film the camera registers their experiences in quest of the wily speckled trout of this region.

165. ISLES OF ROMANCE.

From the Land of the Maple to the Land of Palms you are carried in this picturization of a boat trip from Canada through the glorious isles of British West Indies to Britain's only territorial possession in South America—British Guiana. The camera brings to you glimpses of the scenic beauties, historic points of interest and other features of Bermuda, St. Kitts-Nevis, Antigua, Montserrat, Dominica, St. Lucia, Barbados, St. Vincent, Granada, Trinidad and Demerara.

NOTE: A three reel version of this film entitled "Islands of Romance" produced for the Canadian National Railways may be secured on application direct to this company.

166. THRILLS AND SPILLS.

Ski-jumping, both for participant and onlooker, is undoubtedly the most spectacular and thrilling form of the great Norwegian sport that has become the most universally popular of Canadian winter pastimes. In this film noted experts are seen in action at the great Rockcliffe ski-tower, Ottawa, Canada, and the "slow-motion" camera and telephoto lens provide a unique opportunity to analyze their grace and skill.

1100. GROWING CANADIAN APPLES—Two reels.

Few people realize the extent of Canada's apple industry—stretching as it does from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Nor do they appreciate the vast amount of preparatory work involved to bring these apples to such a high quality. The story of apple growing—experimental work in developing new and better varieties, laying out new orchards, grafting to save injured trees, how insect enemies are controlled, the glories of blossom time, and so on—make a film of rare interest both to those engaged in the industry and to those of the public who want to know why "there's a delight in every bite!"

1101. MARKETING CANADIAN APPLES—Three reels.

That Canada's apple harvest amounts to more than three million barrels a year, gives some idea of the size of this great industry. How the apples are picked and packed—by box in British Columbia, (where girls pack as many as a hundred and fifty a day!); by barrel in the east—how they are carefully graded according to size and quality, and guaranteed through government inspection; their journey to the terminal markets; and the export trade, are highlights in a film which gives in popular style the story of marketing Canadian apples.

NOTE: French edition also.

1093. TWO SONS OF MONSIEUR DUBOIS—Two reels.

The Dubois family had always been followers of the soil. Now that the pioneer days were over and the homestead a well-established farm, old Monsieur Dubois was anxious to see his sons settled in life. The eldest son stayed at home to help his father. The two younger sons decided to go up to the new lands in the north and there carve out their own homesteads from the forest. The story of their work, their happy marriages, their struggles for success, seemed strangely parallel, and yet for one there were only disappointment and failure, while for the other came triumphs and prosperity. And it all hinged on two things—proper land settlement and forest fire protection. "Two Sons of Monsieur Dubois" is a very human story, containing sequences of such varying appeal as the wedding of Jean, the burning of the home of Jacques' neighbour, and the election of Jean to represent his district in Parliament.

1094. SPARE TIME—Two reels—(Produced by "Province of Ontario Pictures".)

Jack Baldwin decided that the Fire Rangers had a pretty soft time of life when there weren't any forest fires. They could spend the summer canoeing, camping, fishing—and get paid for it! So Jack took the examination and became a Fire Ranger. But under his Chief, big Jim Archer, life wasn't such a bed of roses. There were cabins to be built, trails to be cleared, look-out towers to be raised, and so many other jobs which kept him from loafing, that Jack rebelled. His Chief told him what he thought of him in no uncertain terms, and then by showing him what a wonderful work of forest conservation the rangers were doing in their "spare time" completely won Jack over. How he became one of the best men in the service and how when a forest fire did come along, he was able to save the life of his Chief, forms a thrilling climax to the story.
